ROTARY DISTRICT 7690 • January 2003 • DISTRICT GOVERNOR'S NEWSLETTER

"Sow the Seeds of Love"

Henry Brown, District Governor, 495 Crest Rd., Southern Pines, NC 28387

TAKING STOCK: A LOOK BACK AND A LOOK AHEAD

Henry Brown

One of the figures of Roman mythology was Janus, the god of gates and doors, of beginnings and endings. He is depicted with two faces, one looking forward and the other looking backward. He gives his name to our month of January when we typically reflect on the events, accomplishments, successes and failures of the year just past and then predict, plan or otherwise provide for the things we would like to do or see happen in the year that lies ahead.

Our Rotarian gardener, our Sower of the Seeds of Love, might well be of the same mind and attitude as mid-year in the 2002-2003 growing season arrives. Even as fast as the time has flown, it is hard for me to realize that my DG term is at mid-point. I am reminded again how much there is to do in the Rotary garden and how quickly our opportunities to get a crop in the ground can slip right past us. But much has been done by our clubs since last July. Many crops are silently but surely growing under our very feet, waiting for the harvest that will come to reward the Sowers and their diligent work.

Some of the harvests have already begun. There are new members who are contributing to the effectiveness and involvement of their clubs in their communities. There are community service projects of legion number and proportions which have enriched the lives of the citizens of our hometowns. The growing success of our campaigns to raise the funds to eradicate polio gives us all encouragement to carry this struggle to its ultimate victory over a dreadful foe. So we have been busy and productive - - and we have been having fun in the process!

Let's look ahead now, to the work yet to be done, to the crops that can still be planted this year, to the harvests that will be realized before January turns into June. How about the Gold Club award competition? Just a little over two more months before those scoresheets must be turned in, but don't let that hold you back from remaining in the competition. I really am hoping that the "50 or fewer" group of clubs (continued pg.2)

LET'S TELL THE TALE!

Rotarians are typically fairly quiet and unobtrusive.

Well, not the MEMBERS I know! The Rotarians I know are smart, busy, committed to community, active and far from quiet and unobtrusive. So then why do we not do a better job of sharing our work and good news with the public at large?

Let's toot our own horns. We certainly have good stories to tell. With good media coverage, our organization's name will be out there in the public where it belongs. Recruiting qualified members will follow naturally because they too will want to be a part of this active international scene.

And WHY should we do this work? First, we need to do our best to insure the continued success of our clubs. New, qualified and younger members will make that happen - and they need to know we are here.

Second, RI will be celebrating the Centennial in the year 2005. At that time, there will be a huge celebration of all that has happened in Rotary across the world. Here in our District, we want to pave the way now for good media relations and exposure to the public so that when that 100th year anniversary rolls around, we will get the best coverage possible by local media.

So here are some tips to share with your memberships to get started down that road.

Determining what is newsworthy

- Should be relevant to the community at large.
- Significant monetary donation to a non-profit organization.
- Collecting canned goods or school supplies, adopting a charity during a holiday, a significant meeting speaker with a relevant message, etc.
- Response to an article or story relevant to the work of your club or RI.

--that's about half of the clubs in our district - - will make a serious run at the GGC recognition at the district conference in April.

Many, many of you are much closer to the top of the heap in your class than you might think!! Fill out that form and you'll see!

Then there's the Centennial Community Service project to honor your club, your community and the 100th birthday of Rotary International in 2005. If you missed the January 1 deadline for getting your project registered with RI, send it to me this month and I'll use my tremendous clout to get your entry in under the wire anyway. Don't put yourself in the position of looking back at this as an opportunity that you let slip past your club. You may not be around for Rotary's Bicentennial!!

Please read the excellent article in the adjacent column about telling Rotary's tale. Jean Davison gives us good food for thought and action on getting our story out. Think also about sharing news of your club's activities with all the rest of us down at Sea Trail in April. Do your part to help Chairman Bob Tate get all of us involved in the fun task of pulling our district conference together for our mutual enjoyment and education at Sunset Beach. Make sure that you are part of the 10% of your club's membership that your president is bringing to Sea Trail. Exercise your own Power of One and see what a tremendous difference you can make -- because you never can tell who is watching you!

Rotary International Convention

The site for the 2003 RI Convention is Brisbane, Queensland, Australia and the dates are June 1-4, 2003. In your September, 2002 The Rotarian magazine, you will find a registration form, a hotel reservation form which includes the ratings (deluxe, superior, standard, etc.), the costs and the locations along with a map of downtown Brisbane. If anyone needs to be furnished with a copy of the above forms, please contact me. There is a registration deadline of March 31, 2003, if you have not already registered in 2002. On site registration will be handled at the convention and not accepted by mail or fax.

Attending a RI Convention is a wonderful way to better learn what Rotary is all about. Attending the 2003 convention in Brisbane will be a fond memory for the rest of your life. Visit New Zealand or take one of the pre or post convention tours offered in all Rotarian magazines. Please call me if I can assist you in any way at 336-882-6139.

- Recent concerns about polio outbreaks - a great chance to use letters to the editor or "Op Ed" piece in your newspaper
- Timely human interest story - any project related to international relations, Rotary Exchange, work with youth
- Activities of prominent community members
- Stories with a strong visual element for television or print media

How do I know when there is a potential story out there?

1. Enlist the help of your fellow club members.
2. Ask the Board to take a personal interest in this effort and get stories.
3. Pass around a sheet once a month at meetings and ask members to give you their name and phone number if they feel they have a story of interest.

Don't forget the less obvious opportunities

- Contact your club's president's college for announcement of his/her position in the alumni magazine
- Neighborhood and community newsletters
- Corporate newsletters

The best public relations come from word of mouth. Keep your members informed of the good news and encourage them to spread the word. And don't forget that I am here to help guide your process if I can be of help. Don't hesitate to call me at 336-286-2285 or e-mail me at jdav321@aol.com.

I look forward to working with you to "tell the tale."
- Jean Davison, District Chm. Public Relations

CONFERENCE CORNER

by Bob Tate

Well, District Leadership, we are off to the races now in creating the dynamics that lead to a super District Conference. The diversions of the holiday season are behind us and soon some 3400 registration forms will be in the mail to our members. On Monday January 13 the ADG's will meet in Asheboro with Gov. Henry at the home of Don Allred. Following that, I will chair a Conference planning meeting at 3 pm in Asheboro at the Chamber of Commerce building at 317 East Dixie Dr. (about three blocks east of US 220 on the left). I ask that the ADG's also join my gathering. Meetings will also be held there on February 10, March 10 & April 14. Please send any agenda items you may have, questions in general and suggestions to: bobtate@ac.net. The Pinehurst Club will gather on Saturday January 18 to affix the mailing labels you sent to Margaret. Please send any new member addresses as soon as possible.
